C4: Credit Card Cost Control

The opportunity is in the name. Expand your options for lowering costs.

There are many ways to lower your costs and improve your take home profit. That might be why you've considered limiting the brand of credit cards you accept, or even accepting them at all, at your business. However, when over 70% of Americans prefer to use a card*, you know that credit cards are considered just another cost of doing business in today's market. But what if you could continue your business operations while offsetting those costs? Credit Card Cost Control (C4) may just be the answer for your business.

Our zero-cost acceptance program makes your cost for credit card acceptance free. How? By charging the cardholder, instead of your business, a surcharge fee on every credit card transaction at the time of sale. No matter the credit card, you can reliably accept credit card payments without thinking about the cost to your business.

Plus, with C4 you get a flat-rate debit card acceptance cost of just 1% + $0.25 per transaction. All you need to get started is either a Tetra terminal, or a website supported by our Converge platform. Take charge, literally and figuratively, with confidence through the predictability of our C4 pricing program.

Zero-cost credit card acceptance is now possible.
